YOUR WEDDING,
YOUR MARRIAGE

An invitation from St Peter's

LIFE AFTER THE WEDDING

Getting married is still one of the biggest steps we take and no-one enters into it casually. So this is a day to explore together some of the things that help to make a marriage work.

We are all different, so what we want and hope for will be different too. But whatever your individual futures bring, some things affect all marriages – how we communicate, how we deal with conflict, how we might prepare ourselves for the difficulties that lie ahead as surely as we are prepared for the joys.

And if this all sounds rather serious, be assured that the day is actually great fun! But what does it involve? And what are the 'ground rules'?

The day consists of sessions that explore different areas within a relationship – such as how well we really know our partner, what we expect from the marriage, the impact of children, how we deal with finances. These are open discussions – we learn from you as much as you learn from us – and they include some illuminating lists of questions to share between yourselves.

The entire session is confidential and at no time is anyone asked to talk about anything in the group which is private or they don't want to share.

The more we put into a marriage, the more we get from it. So whether you've been living together for some time or are just about to do so, we very much hope you will be able to join us for what should be an enjoyable and rewarding day

We at St Peter's want your marriage to be all you could hope for, not just the day itself but in all the years to come. That's why we have arranged two events that we hope will be useful – Marriage Matters to talk about your wedding day in church, and a day called Life After the Wedding, where we think about your future together.

This invitation describes both events, with times and places. We would be grateful if you could return the enclosed reply card as soon as possible. We hope you'll find these occasions helpful and look forward to seeing you.

Every blessing

Patrick

MARRIAGE MATTERS

At the very centre of your wedding day is the ceremony in church. This meeting looks at what that means, and makes certain that every question you may have is answered so everything goes smoothly.

We shall gather in church to talk and discuss some of the logistics of your day, then our choirmaster will help you choose your wedding music by playing some of the most popular pieces.
